

For the second CES in a row, the Shun Mook room had impressive sound, but this year the system was all analog -- no digital to be found. The Bella Voce Reference speakers ($11,000 per pair) were driven by Lamm ML2 mono amplifiers via Nordost SPM cabling. An ARC Reference One preamp and Reference Phono phono stage along with an Oracle turntable rounded out the system, which made leaving the room, blanketed in Shun Mook discs as it was, tough.

http://shows.soundstagelive.com/shows/ces2000/product\_13.shtml