This has got to be the wildest, craziest gadget any man could want. AskMen.com staff believe that the new Oracle CD Turntable is the ultimate in audio entertainment. It contains has a magnetic clamp that holds the disc flat resulting in a ultra smooth rotation.

The Oracle CD Player's main chassis assembly is suspended and isolated from room vibrations using four suspension towers that have shock absorbers inside. Each suspension tower assembly combines twelve different components.

The suspension system is a highly sophisticated device combining seven different mechanical filters, all working together to effectively control unwanted vibrations. The result is clear sound that music lovers everywhere can appreciate. It's no wonder that Oracle won the Innovation Award at this year's International Consumer Electronics Show.

AskMen.com gives this product two enthusiastic thumbs up.
